Disclosure Statement (effective as at the date of your overdraft letter)

1. What do shaded areas mean?

It's important for you to read all of these terms, but we have shaded the parts we think are particularly important for our customers to be aware of.

2. What are these terms about?

The terms and conditions that apply to your overdraft are set out in these terms and the General Terms and Conditions, and any document we give you changing the terms and conditions of your overdraft. This document, your overdraft letter and the Personal Banking Fees and Limits brochure are your disclosure statement under section 17 of the Credit Contracts and Consumer Finance Act 2003.

Your overdraft terms and conditions are a separate agreement to the agreement between us for the account you use to access your overdraft. If there is any conflict between the General Terms and Conditions and these terms, these terms will take priority.

We may also agree with you in writing other terms and conditions and the law may imply terms and conditions. These terms make reference to the following:

- “you” means each person named as the holder of the overdraft. If there are more than one of you, it means each of you jointly and individually, unless the context requires otherwise. “Your” has a corresponding meaning; and
- “we” means Kiwibank Limited and our successors, assignees and authorised agents. “Our” and “us” have corresponding meanings.

Please ensure that you read these terms and the general terms, as they contain important information about your and our responsibilities and liabilities.

3. When can these terms change?

We may change any of these terms by giving notice at least 14 days before we make a change (or in the case of a change to an interest rate, by giving notice at any time permitted by law).

When we give notice under these terms, we can do so in one or more of the following ways:

- by direct communication (by letter, email, or text message, by secure message when you log in to internet banking, on a monthly statement, or by fax or telephone);

- by displaying a notice on our website (kiwibank.co.nz);
- by displaying a notice in our branches;
- by putting a notice in the media (for example, in the public notices section of a newspaper); or
- through any banking service we provide in an electronic form, including internet banking and mobile banking used by you.

You are responsible for telling us if there are any changes to your contact details, including your email address. You will be taken to have received any notice that we send to the most recent contact address that we have on file for you.

4. Our name and address

Kiwibank Limited, Private Bag 39888, Wellington 5045.

5. Initial unpaid balance

Your overdraft letter details the initial unpaid balance on your overdraft as at the date of your overdraft letter.

6. Overdraft limit

Your overdraft limit is set out in your overdraft letter – this is also known as your credit limit. Your overdraft limit is the maximum amount you are allowed to borrow on your overdraft at any time, including interest, fees and charges.

When we approve your overdraft, we will link the overdraft limit to the bank account you asked us to. This is the account which you will use to access your overdraft limit (your “Everyday Account”).

7. Overdraft limit exceeded

If you exceed your approved overdraft limit, we may at our discretion, decline to make payments from, or decline your requests to withdraw money from, the account you use to access the overdraft. This excess will be an unauthorised overdraft. We may charge you interest and fees on any unauthorised overdraft as set out in section 14.

8. Changes to overdraft limit

We may reduce your overdraft limit at any time by giving notice to you. If this means that you have exceeded your overdraft limit, the excess amount will be an unauthorised overdraft. We will charge you interest and fees on any unauthorised overdraft as set out in section 14.

You must contact us if you want to decrease or apply to increase your overdraft limit. An increase to your overdraft limit may require you to make a new application and pay an application fee. That application will be subject to Kiwibank's lending criteria and terms and conditions.

9. Annual interest rate

Your current annual interest rate is set out in your overdraft letter. We can change this rate (including the rate type) from time to time.

10. Method of charging interest

If we have agreed that you will have an interest free period on your overdraft, then for so long as we have agreed that your overdraft is interest free, we will not charge you interest as long as you remain within your overdraft limit, otherwise we may charge you a fee and apply interest as outlined in section 7.

Otherwise, interest will be charged on the outstanding balance of your overdraft on a daily basis at the daily interest rate from the date your overdraft (or any part of it) is drawn down until the date you repay your overdraft in full.

The daily interest rate is calculated by dividing the annual interest rate at the time by 365.

We can deduct any interest from your Everyday Account:

- on the last day of each month or such other date as we decide, if we are unable to deduct it on that day; and
- if you repay or are required to repay the outstanding balance of the overdraft in full, on such earlier date as we decide.

11. Fees and charges

Our fees and charges are set out in the Personal Banking Fees and Limits brochure. We may change our fees by giving notice at least 14 days before doing so. Please see www.kiwibank.co.nz or any Kiwibank branch for details of our fees.

12. Payments required

We may, by written notice at any time, require you to immediately pay us all or part of the outstanding balance of your overdraft, together with any interest or costs that we may incur in recovering the amounts that you owe to us. We can give you written notice to repay immediately even if your overdraft letter has a fixed term.

If you exceed your overdraft limit, you must immediately pay us the excess amount.

If your overdraft has a fixed term, you must pay us the outstanding balance of your overdraft on the last day of that term, unless we decide (at our discretion) to extend the term of your overdraft.

You can make payments on your overdraft by making deposits to your Everyday Account in any of the following ways:

- (a) by automatic payment, bill payment or direct debit – please call us to arrange;
- (b) by internet, mobile or phone banking (allow three business days for your payment to be applied to your overdraft) – please contact the bank with which you hold your current (cheque/savings) account for details of this service;
- (c) at any Kiwibank branch; and
- (d) by mailing a cheque to us (allow time for postage and up to two business days for your payment to be applied to your overdraft).

13. Cancelling your overdraft

You can choose to repay your overdraft in full at any time and ask us to cancel it. This right is separate to your right to cancel the overdraft described below.

Statement of right to cancel

You are entitled to cancel your overdraft for a short period after your overdraft disclosure documents are given to you in accordance with the Credit Contracts and Consumer Finance Act 2003.

How to cancel

If you want to cancel your overdraft, you must give written notice to us that you intend to cancel.

- (a) If your overdraft disclosure documents were handed to you directly, you must give that notice to us within 5 working days after you receive the documents.
- (b) If your overdraft disclosure documents were sent to you by electronic means (for example, email), you must give that notice to us within 7 working days after the electronic communication was sent.
- (c) If your overdraft disclosure documents were mailed to you, you must give that notice to us within 9 working days after they were posted.

Saturdays, Sundays, and national public holidays do not count as working days.

To cancel, you must:

- (a) give written notice to us in person by dropping it into any Kiwibank branch or Postshop or by posting it to the postal address set out above; and
- (b) return any advances and any other property to us that you received under the overdraft terms.

What you may have to pay if you cancel

If you cancel your overdraft, we can charge you:

- (a) the amount of any reasonable expenses we had to pay in connection with your overdraft and its cancellation (including legal fees and fees for credit reports, etc); and
- (b) interest for the period from the day you received each advance until the day you repaid it to us.

14. Interest and fees on unauthorised overdraft

We will charge you interest on any unauthorised overdraft at our unauthorised overdraft rate. Our current unauthorised overdraft rate is set out in your overdraft letter. This rate is subject to change. We'll calculate this interest on a daily basis at the daily unauthorised overdraft rate from the date you exceed your overdraft limit until the date you repay enough money to bring your overdraft within your overdraft limit.

The daily unauthorised overdraft rate is calculated by dividing the annual unauthorised overdraft rate at the time by 365.

We can deduct any unauthorised overdraft interest from your Everyday Account:

- on the last day of each month or such other date as we decide, if we are unable to deduct it on that day; and
- if you repay enough money to bring your overdraft within your overdraft limit, on such earlier date as we decide.

We may charge you fees in relation to your unauthorised overdraft.

15. Paying fees and costs

You must pay us the following amounts (which we call costs) when we ask you to:

- all costs (including enforcement, collection, court and legal costs) that we reasonably incur in responding to, our dealing with the effects of, your failure to pay amounts that you owe to us, your breach of these terms or your fraud or other wrongdoing;
- all liabilities arising from third party claims that we incur because of your breach of these terms or because of your fraud or other wrongdoing, and all costs that we reasonably incur in defending or settling those claims (including court costs and legal costs);
- all liabilities arising from third party claims that we incur because of following your instructions, and all costs that we reasonably incur in defending or settling those claims (including court costs and legal costs); and
- all losses suffered by us, by our other account holders or customers and/or by any other third party, through unauthorised transactions that were caused or contributed to by your breach of these terms or by your fraud or other wrongdoing.

However, you will not be liable under this clause for losses or liabilities that result directly from fraudulent or negligent conduct by us (or by our employees, agents or suppliers involved in the provision of our accounts, products or services).

We may deduct any fees, or any of the costs set out above from your Everyday Account.

16. Continuing disclosure statements

We'll send you statements covering your overdraft every month.

17. Security interest

If your overdraft is entered into on or after 4 June 2015, the following applies to your overdraft:

Despite what we may have agreed with you in another agreement or document, your overdraft is unsecured, unless we state otherwise in your overdraft letter. If your overdraft is secured, your overdraft letter will set out details of the security that will secure your overdraft.

If your overdraft was entered into before 4 June 2015, the following applies to your overdraft:

Any money due by you in respect of your overdraft is secured by any present or future security (for example, any mortgage of land) given by you to us. That is also the case if you give us that security in conjunction with any other person.
